

Greetings from the Tibetan Language Institute!

Dear Friends,

David is back from Los Angeles. He taught three courses there: one for the Thrangu Rinpoche Study Group, an Intro to the Tibetan Language Day, and a Reading Seminar (the group worked with the Thirty-Seven Practices of Bodhisattvas text). All went very well. David is planning to go back on the road again soon: he'll be bringing his teachings to both coasts this fall.

Upcoming Seminars

Rochester, NY

Take both the Introductory and Translation Workshop in November 12-14, 2004 at Loyola Marymount University in Los Angeles, CA. This introductory course offers the opportunity to learn to read the script of the sacred Tibetan language in three days—and have fun doing it! Students will learn to use the Tibetan-English dictionary and will acquire some basic vocabulary.

David teaching in Los Angeles in July, 2004. “This grammar point seems to defy the limitations of human physiology,” observed student and photographer George Chialtas.

The required text, TLI’s “Introduction to Tibetan, Level I” ($20), will not be available during class; visit www.tibetanlanguage.org to preorder it.

To register: Go to <http://extension.lmu.edu/yoga> and click on the link for “Fall 2004 Programs.” Cost of attendance: $330.

If you prefer, you may always pre-order TLI’s materials at our website, www.tibetanlanguage.org, rather than purchasing them at the seminar location. (In some cases, this may be necessary). Whether or not you are able to attend one of David’s upcoming seminars, check out the TLI website for all your Tibetan language learning needs. We currently have some great deals on Tibetan software and fonts! We wish you all the best in your language studies.

Sincerely,

Erin Keskeny
